* The Blur Tool allows you to blur, sharpen, soften, or vignette an image. The Blur Tool also allows you to soften or amplify a photograph's highlights or shadows, using the controls shown in Figure 1-16. * The Burn Tool helps you burn and dodge shadows, saturate colors, and lighten or darken an image. You can even use the brush with the Burn Tool to paint various lights and shadows, including details, on an image. Figure 1-17 shows the Burn Tool after you paint in a dark object. Figure 1-16. You can use the Blur Tool to blur, sharpen, soften, or vignette your image. To enhance the color on the original image, use the Gradient Tool (step 2 in Figure 9-2) to add a new color. * The Clone Stamp Tool lets you replicate colors and shades from one area of an image to another. You can make changes that are difficult or impossible to make by hand or other means. Figure 1-18 shows the Clone Stamp Tool in action. See "Using the Spot Healing Brush" for more on this tool. Figure 1-17. The Burn Tool is really handy for toning down shadows and bringing out details. To use this tool, open a photo and select the area of the image that needs to be changed. Then use the Burn Tool to paint dark or light areas on the image. Or you can do it the other way around, which can be interesting, too. Figure 1-18. Use the Clone Stamp Tool to paint over a shadow. You can use the Clone Stamp Tool in either one of two ways. To paint a dark area, paint in an area just a little lighter than a shadow, and the Clone Stamp Tool will copy that color over the shadow. To paint a light area, paint in an area just a little darker than a highlight, and the Clone Stamp Tool will copy that color over a highlight.
